The Course:

Community development encompasses issues related to neighborhood planning, citizen participation, grassroots organizing, housing, economic development, social welfare, public safety, health, education, recreation, the environment and other aspects of community life. Community development is distinct from other types of urban planning in two respects. First, community development views the urban planning process as transparent and driven by the general public. Second, community development strives to create an urban milieu that is centered on enhancing the quality of life for residents.

During the semester, we will examine many of the dimensions of the community development process. As they are explored, you should maintain a holistic view and remain conscious of how each dimension interacts with others. In addition to examining substantive issues in community development, this course focuses on critical thinking. Selected areas of community development will be examined in-depth.

We will meet for the next 15 weeks. During each class session we will discuss the assigned readings. Everyone should be prepared to participate during each lecture.

If you have any questions during the semester, please bring them to my attention. I will be available during office hours and by appointment. Also, you may contact me using e-mail.

Required Text and Required Reserve Readings:

The required texts are available at the University Medical Bookstore and The College Store

Academic Integrity:

Students are expected to approach the course with seriousness and integrity. It is important to complete assignments on time, attend class regularly, and foster a collegial learning environment. Plagiarism and other instances of academic misconduct will result in a failing grade on a respective assignment, exam, or paper. Students should refer to the University at Buffalo Undergraduate Catalog and the University at Buffalo Graduate Catalog for clarification on the University's policies and procedures.

Accommodations for Disabilities:

If you have a disability (physical, learning, or psychological) that impacts your course work please contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS), 25 Capen Hall, (716) 645-2608. ODS will provide you with information and review appropriate arrangements for reasonable accommodation (such as recruiting note-takers, readers, or extended time on assignments). You must bring requests for accommodations for a disability to the professor's attention within the first two weeks of class.

Writing Centers:

The University at Buffalo has a number of writing center where students can get assistance with essays, term papers, and thesis projects. Students should contact one of the following if they would like to access these campus resources:

- Undergraduate students can go to the Writing Place for assistance. The Writing Place is located at 209 Baldy Hall, (716) 645-2394; <http://tlc.buffalo.edu/lewrite.htm> ,
